Vampire Mouth

By Jeremy Shafer ©2002

This model includes vampire lips AND dentures! It makes a perfect present for any old lipless, toothless vampire.

1. White side up, valley-fold in half diagonally and unfold.
2. Valley-fold and unfold.
3. Valley-fold and unfold.

4. Valley-fold.
5. Valley-fold overlapping the two ends.
6. Turn over. Rotate 45°.

7. Valley-fold and unfold.
8. Valley-fold and unfold. Turn over.
9. Valley-fold from point A to the vertical middle crease so that the left edge touches point B.
10. Like this. Unfold the flap.
Repeat steps 9-10 three times.

Valley-fold from point C to the vertical middle crease so that the left edge touches point B.

Like this. Unfold the flap.

Repeat steps 12-13 three times.

Valley-fold and unfold. Turn over.

First pinch the mountain fold. Then make a pleat so that the mountain folds touches the diagonal creases at the black dots. Repeat on the other end.

Like this. Turn over.

Valley-fold on existing creases, squashing at the sides to flatten.

Unfold the top to step 18.

Turn over.

Valley-fold the raw edge to the left side of the model, pulling the rest of the raw edge up to touch the horizontal folded edge. Repeat on the right side.
Valley-fold the edge, reverse folding at the sides and making it go underneath the colored lip. Alternatively, you could simply mountain-fold the flap behind, but the above way gives the mouth a better bite.
The Vampire mouth is ready for a night out on the town. Holding from behind as shown, squeeze the sides and the mouth will close. The action is most striking when the teeth bite together without overlapping.
